

Foldable plaster square for the professionals

Hultafors has taken yet another step to make life easier for the craftsmen. Plaster square PS120 is the latest addition to reach the market. Being foldable, the tool is easy to transport and store. It is a steady tool featuring four set angles of fixation.

Only professionals know what professionals need. That's why craftsmen have been involved during Hultafors' development of their new plaster square PS120. The tool is best described as functional, convenient to use, and stable when cutting out plasterboards.

"Foldability is an important functionality of the plaster square. Since the stock does not protrude it is easy for the user to transport the tool and it takes up less space in the car, says Håkan Carlsson, Product Manager at Hultafors Group.

Being able to fold the plaster square is one of the primary benefits to the users. Mikael Bengtsson, carpenter at Skanska, is one of the craftsmen who has tested the new tool.

"Since it is so easy to work with, the plaster square really makes my job easier. It is easy to transport in the car, easy to carry when I move around on large construction sites and don't have to worry about leaving scratch marks on walls," he says.

In order to optimise the user experience, an easy manoeuvre allows the craftsman to set the stock in four fixed positions. There are 21 marked angles and the stock can be turned to both the left and the right. Designed to get the best grip and best torque, the knob makes the plaster square a reliable tool.

Another important area of focus during the development process was the fact that the tool must rest steadily on the surface throughout the work process.

"Many craftsmen have been asking for a plaster square that does not wobble. In order to meet that need, our product has a steady construction and is made of anodized aluminium.
